

Stiletto stabbed into hooker's face on Untold Stories of the ER, Sun. Oct. 6

By April Neale Oct 4, 2013, 19:22 GMT

This week, Dr. Sudip Bose treats a patient covered in cow feces. In the same shift, a lap dancer with a stiletto heel stuck in her cheek flirts with him while he tries to remove it.

Tune in alert for this Sunday, October 6 at 9 PM (ET/PT), the eighth season of signature series Untold Stories of the ER returns on Discovery Fit & Health.

The season will continue to air premieres Sundays at 9PM (ET/PT) into January followed by encore episodes airing Saturdays at 9 PM (ET/PT) on TLC.

This week, Dr. Sudip Bose treats a patient covered in cow feces. In the same shift, a lap dancer with a stiletto heel stuck in her cheek flirts with him while he tries to remove it. Meanwhile, Dr. David Meyers tries to revive a woman whose heart has stopped. Sadly, he fails, and declares her dead. But is she actually? Then, Dr. Tyler Cymet's patient is a woman who is wailing hysterically. When asked why she's there, she says she's dying of a broken heart.

ABOUT SERIES: UNTOLD STORIES OF THE ER Series Premieres Saturday, October 6 at 9 PM (ET/PT)

The series goes behind the hospital curtain to feature the dramatic stories of real-life trips to the emergency room. Recounting the heart-racing cases that changed their lives, patients and doctors alike share the unusual, sometimes humorous, touching and emotionally explosive true tales about the clash of life and death in the Emergency Room. Doctors reveal the intense nature of medicine practiced under pressure, where every moment and decision can be a turning point. Interspersed with vivid reenactments shot in actual emergency rooms, trauma units, and intensive care wards, UNTOLD STORIES OF THE ER is a testament to medical heroes, providing a true-to-life depiction of the daily battle ER doctors take on in order to save lives.

ABOUT PREMIERE EPISODE: “Cows & Stilettos” Episode Premieres Saturday, October 6 at 9 PM (ET/PT)

Dr. Sudip Bose treats a patient covered in cow feces after the man crashed his convertible into a cow. Now, he’s stinking up the whole hospital. On the same shift, a lap dancer with a stiletto heel stuck in her cheek flirts with Dr. Bose while he tries to remove it. Meanwhile, a patient’s heart stops with no explanation, and Dr. David Meyers tries to revive her. He fails, and after 40 minutes, declares her dead. But is she actually? Then, it’s a full moon, and Dr. Tyler Cymet is preparing for a long night ahead. His first patient is woman who causes great commotion with hysterical wailing and flailing. When asked why she’s there, she says she’s dying of a broken heart.

http://www.monstersandcritics.com/smallscreen/news/article_1718316.php/Stiletto-stabbed-into-hooker-s-face-on-Untold-Stories-of-the-ER-Sun-Oct-6